The Stock Market

The Chief Economist's Analysis [a focus on BOLLORE TRANSPORT & LOGISTICS CI]

Bollore's turnover amounted to CFAF 65,056.9 million at the end of the third quarter of 2019 compared to CFAF 66,278 million in the same period of the previous year, a slight decrease of 1.8%. The decline in turnover is justified by the drop in maritime export and import transit, respectively linked to the low volumes of cashew exported and the contraction of the volumes of certain traditional customers. As for the company's net profit, it increased by 34% to CFAF 10,571 million as of September 30, 2019, compared to CFAF 7,875.4 million the previous year. According to the company, the increase in profits would come from dividends received from its subsidiaries. On the stock market, the Bollore share lost 25% of its value on December 31, 2019, standing at CFAF 1,500 compared to CFAF 2,000 at the start of the year. The loss recorded by the stock mainly comes from the slowdown in Bollore's activities. In 2020, the share price rose from CFAF 1,500 at the start of the year to CFAF 1,950 on February 6, 2020, an increase of 30% which could be explained by the publication of the third quarter Bollore's results, revealing an improvement in its profits. The upward trend should continue in the short term. However, the company's annual turnover is not expected to change significantly at the end of 2019 compared to the previous year, among other reasons the persistence of fraudulent exports of cashew nuts.
